DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-27 are presented for examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

3. Claims 1-4, 7, 9-12, 14-16 and 21-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Cook (6,631,360 hereinafter Cook).

With respect to claims 1-4 , 7, 9-12, 14-16, 19, , 21-23, 24-26 Cook teaches a method for marketing (Abstract). Defining a match between a user classification and an incentive (col. 7, lines 65 to col. 8, lines 1-9); receiving user data associated with a user terminal from a plurality of sources (col. 1, lines 41-60 and col. 8, lines 8-18); classifying the user in a user classification (col. 8, lines 56 to col. 9, lines 1-28); transmitting the incentive to the user if a match is defined between the user classification and the incentive (col. 8, lines 26-34).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 5-6, 8, 13, 17-18, 20 and 27 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cook.

Claims 5, 17 and 18 further recite classifying the user in a user classification if a relationship between the sales data and the viewing selections is detected if the user views advertisements for a product and purchases the product. Since Cook teaches on page 1, lines 41- to col.2, lines 1-2 that user's viewing habits pertaining to ads and past purchases are recorded then it would have been obvious in the system of Cook to correlate both the user's viewing habit and sales data to classify the user because such a modification would help to better predict the user future behavior.

Claims 8 and 20 further recites that the user data further comprising whether the product associated with the incentive was purchased. Official notice is taken that it is old and well known in marketing to keep track of the coupons redeemed in order to better target the purchaser. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of Applicant's invention to have included the user data further comprising whether the product associated with the incentive was purchased in order to obtain the above mentioned advantage.

Claims 13 and 27 further recites that the incentive comprises a coupon. Official notice is taken that it is old and well known in marketing to provide coupons or discounts to customer to further induce the customers to make a purchase. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of Applicant's invention to have included a coupon in order to obtain the above mentioned advantage.
